THE UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA STAFF BULLETIN

EDMONTON 7, ALBERTA

NOVEMBER 19, 1970

The Education Centre will look like this in the not very distant future. Education II, phase I, the project which has just been approved, comprises more than half of the new building; phase II, extending to 89 Avenue, will be added later. The diamond-shaped link between the new building and the existing one will contain a student lounge overlooking an outdoor terrace and a "kiva," a large experimental teaching forum for up to two hundred people. This bird's-eye view looks to the west; St. Stephen's College is in the foreground.

Education Centre to grow

Education II, phase I, is the most recent capital project to be approved by the Board of Governors. It will connect with the existing Education Centre and extend north between St. Stephen's College and St. Joseph's College towards 89 Avenue. Future phases will include an extension north to 89 Avenue, a development west of the Education Gym, and library expansion east of the Education Library.

The new building will provide an additional 120,630 square feet of space to the Faculty of Education and bring departments now housed in Campus Towers and the General Services Building back into the Education Centre. It will not provide for laboratory space for the Department of Industrial Arts and Vocational Education, accommodation of the Centre for the Study of Mental Retardation, expansion of the Education Library, normal growth of the existing departments or addition of new departments. Target cost for the project is $5,000,000.

The second floor of the diamond-shaped link with the existing building will be a "kiva," literally a Hopi council chamber, but in this case a large experimental teaching space for about two hundred people. The Indian kiva traditionally was round in shape and used as a forum with the main participants in the middle. The adaptation planned for the Education Centre will be square on its outer configuration, allowing corners for small groups to meet and flat walls to serve as screens for audio-visual presentations. The carpeted floor of the kiva will be stepped in concentric circles, lowest in the centre with each level at least eight feet wide to facilitate table and chair arrangements. Large segments of the

provide a pedestrian link between the existing Education Centre

walls will be covered with carpet or other sound-deadening material and other segments of wall will be finished in white-enamelled metal chalkboards.

The ground level of the link will be a sunken lounge for undergraduate students, with access onto an outdoor terrace.

In addition to the usual storage, mechanical and electrical areas, the basement of the new building will house shipping and receiving with a truck loading area below ground level, some classrooms, and the Division of Audio Visual Media. There will be a tunnel connection with the basement of the existing building to facilitate student movement and the delivery of audio visual equipment.

The main occupant of the first floor will be the Educational Clinic, so that considerable space will be given over to interview and testing cubicles, observation rooms, video-taping and so forth. There will be direct access between the clinic and an outdoor children's play area. Apart from the clinic, there will be a variety of general instruction areas.

The main pedestrian walkway with adjoining small lounges will be along the west side of the second level. Eventually it will connect 87 and 89 Avenues. The remainder of the second floor will be instructional areas with classrooms and seminar rooms of various sizes and shapes, a large "multi-media" lecture theatre with support areas surrounding it, and a small auditorium.

The third level will be devoted entirely to the Division of Educational Research Services and its computer facilities. A balcony walkway along the west side of the floor will have access to a landscaped terrace. This level is smaller than those below and is the first level not connected with the existing building.

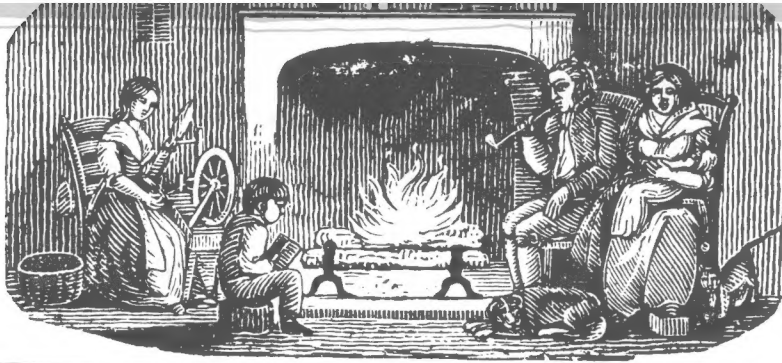

The main mechanical room for the building will be located on the fourth floor. The north side contains the staff and graduate lounge, and the west side will house utility areas of office, mail, and conference rooms. In the middle of this level is a landscaped court, the floor of an open lightwell carrying upward through all higher floors. It is accessible from the lounge and a perimeter corridor.

The fifth, sixth, and seventh floors are typical in configuration, resembling a rectangular doughnut with the lightwell in the centre. Level five will house the Department of Educational Foundations and the laboratories of the Department of Educational Psychology. Level six will accommodate the main offices and graduate study facilities of the Department of Educational Psychology. The Department of Educational Administration will be located on the seventh floor, which, like the two floors beneath, will be restricted to office, seminar, and graduate study areas.

"Office landscaping," a new idea in planning work areas, will be used in several areas of the building for general offices, graduate student areas, and seminar rooms. In "office landscaping," a concept developed in Germany, each person is placed at a station visually separated from his neighbors by low screens, potted plants, shelves, filing cabinets and so forth. The location of work stations is determined by a study of the office organization so that

TOW-AWAY POLICY

A statement of the "University vehicle tow-away policy" has been received from L. C. LEITCH, Acting Vice-President (Finance and Administration), and is published below.

The University attempts to regulate occupancy of available parking space by a system of priorities designed for the best interests of the University. A system of fines to be levied against those who usurp the space of others is executed by the issue of parking tickets.

When the deterrent value of parking signs, yellow curbs, and parking violation tickets is not sufficient to serve the interests of the University regarding safety, emergency services, or key personnel essential to the function of the University, tow-away action is taken. The current policy on towing illegally parked vehicles from the University is as follows:

(a) Vehicles parked illegally at fire hydrants, in 24 hour reserved service vehicle areas, and in 24 hour reserved stalls, are to be towed away. (Fire hydrants and service vehicle areas must be clear for the use of fire fighting vehicles and for those providing emergency maintenance essential to the function of the University.) A staff member may obtain a 24 hour reservation for his stall only after satisfying the University through his Department Chairman that the nature of his duties require an ability to come and go around the clock, and therefore, he must be guaranteed available space. Such reservations are also available for valid medical reasons.

(b) Vehicles parked illegally in private stalls, not reserved for 24 hours, are towed away on the specific complaint of the stall holder who cannot be provided with convenient temporary alternate space and when the owner of the offending vehicle cannot be located in time to rectify the situation.

(c) Vehicles consistently parked illegally may be placed on a tow-away list, in which case they will be towed from the campus whenever found, until the drivers have satisfied the University that they will conform with the regulations.

(d) Vehicles parked in a zone in a manner blocking access routes, are towed away to provide passage for zone users.

(e) From time to time, when a zone contains such a number of illegally parked vehicles sufficient to prevent its use by authorized parkers and when authorized parkers have registered complaints and requests for stalls to be made available, the offending vehicles are towed away to permit those authorized to use the zone. Otherwise, tickets are issued.

PEOPLE

■ RUDY WIEBE, Assistant Professor of English, was one of five Canadian novelists invited to read from his fiction at the Canadian Fiction and Critics conference at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton. Mr. Wiebe's third novel, The Blue Mountains of China, has been published this month by McClelland and Stewart.

■ B. KORDA, Associate Professor of Economics, will speak to the Department of Economics at the University of Ottawa on "Methods of Planning."

■ JUANITA CHAMBERS, Associate Professor of Educational Psychology, presented an address at the northwest regional conference of the Council on Exceptional Children.

■ M. PATRICIA BROWNE, Assistant Professor of Elementary Education, has been appointed Canadian co-chairman of "Commission 3: Language and Learning in the Primary/Elementary School: The Teacher in Action," for York 1971—Teaching and Learning English. This international seminar is to be held at the University of York, York, England.

■ H. HINGERT, Associate Professor of Philosophy, read a paper to the International Conference on Mathematical Logic at Bedford College, University of London, and two papers at York University during his visit to England.

■ ANTHONY L. VANEK, Associate Professor of Slavic Languages, chaired the executive committee meeting of the Southeastern Conference on Linguistics, of which he is the founder and first secretary-treasurer, in Atlanta. He also chaired a session on linguistics and delivered a paper at the ninth Southern Conference on Slavic Studies in New Orleans and was a participant at the meeting of the Academy of Aphasia in that city.

■ KAROL KROTKI, Professor of Sociology, has visited North Africa on two occasions over the last few months as consultant to the Central Statistical Offices of Algeria and Morocco on the establishment of demographic programs. One visit related to the development of a demographic program at the University of North Carolina where Dr. Krotki spent the summer as Visiting Professor of Biostatistics.

VISITORS

FELLOWSHIPS IN LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES

The Canada Council, in co-operation with the Foreign Area Fellowship Program, is offering a number of training and research fellowships to outstanding Canadian students in the social sciences, interested in specializing in the study of Latin America, including the Spanish-speaking islands of the Caribbean. The program is designed to increase the number of social scientists in Canada who are knowledgeable about Latin America and who are able to contribute to an understanding of the area and its development.

Fellowships are offered to individuals initiating graduate study in a Canadian university in the social sciences, i.e., economics, history, political science, geography, sociology, and anthropology, and provide up to approximately 15 months of support for (a) an initial three- to four-month period of intensive language training in Spanish or Portuguese, beginning June, 1971, if needed; (b) an academic year of graduate study for the Master's degree in one of the social sciences at a Canadian university, to include course work in Latin American studies and language training deemed appropriate by the award-holder's adviser; (c) approximately three to four months of field research in Latin America for the Master's thesis, to be conducted in affiliation with a scholarly institution in the region. Award-holders will be assisted by the Foreign Area Fellowship Program office in arranging this affiliation.

The program provides a monthly stipend of $250 throughout the period of tenure, and additional funds will be made available for travel abroad and for language training fees.

Applicants must be Canadian citizens at the time of application, have acquired their Honors BA or its equivalent from a Canadian university by June, 1971, and be planning to continue for the Master's degree in the following academic year.

The closing date is January 15, 1971 and an announcement by the Foreign Area Fellowship Program will be made about April 1, 1971. Application forms may be obtained from the Student Awards Office, 122 Administration Building.

BI-NATIONAL DANCE CONFERENCE

The first bi-national dance conference sponsored by CAPHER-AAPHER will be held at the University of Waterloo, June 10 to 17, 1971. It is open to 300 participants from all educational levels in both the United States and Canada, with fifteen student members from each country. The program theme of "Verities-Values-Visions" will be developed by demonstrations, master classes, and work study groups. For further information, call JOYCE BOORMAN, Lecturer in Physical Education, 432-3652.

SHERLOCK HOLMES SOCIETY

Anyone interested in forming a branch of the Sherlock Holmes Society is asked to call PETER WOOD at 599-6475. The society would be social in nature for devotees of SHERLOCK HOLMES and JOHN H. WATSON, MD, late Indian Army.
